FROM THE CO-FOUNDER

“THIS TALISMAN IS FOR YOU. WHEN THE HOLDER OF THIS MAGIC CHARM IS IN NEED OF HELP, HE CALLS ON THE GODS OF ANCIENT GREECE, AND THEY SAVE HIM.”

-Aristide in The Gods of Comedy

Ken Ludwig puts an encyclopedia of information into each of his comedies. It is why I love his writing. In The Gods of Comedy, he jams this play full of Greek gods and goddesses and places them smack dab in the middle of a college campus. Why are we still studying Ancient Greek authors, playwrights, and philosophers thousands of years after their deaths?

The Greeks help us understand language. Great comedies need smart people who love words. The Greeks help us develop critical thinking skills. Ludwig always wants us to laugh uproariously as the comic bus crashes into us. The Greeks help connect universal themes to each other. Euripides was the father of thought and debate. Our ability to discuss our differences compassionately has always interested me.

The college campus is perfect as both the center of divine learning and debauchery. I made some of my worst mistakes in college. I decided what I didn't want to be by studying what I thought I wanted to be. Being an elementary school teacher would have been a huge mistake. I was not cut out for daily written lesson plans, eating lunch in less than 30 minutes, and scheduling conferences with parents who might be raising a "monster" wearing a Minnie Mouse t-shirt.

Producing amazing theatre for Aurora's student audiences, music directing our shows, training our Apprentices to be competitive in the arts market are all better uses of my educational super powers. I love learning! I want us to read more books, listen to more music and see more plays - sharing stories together here in a theatre you helped build.

Ludwig challenges us when Dionysus says, "I think that life should be an adventure. And if it isn't, go back and fix it."

I thank each of you for being a part of the greatest adventure of my life – an adventure I call Aurora Theatre. It is sometimes smooth and sometimes bumpy, but we are always in pursuit of learning and loving and laughing.
